Örnek Cevap

Mobile phones have transformed the lives of people in the last few years. They have changed the way we communicate with each other. However, there can be several disadvantages to using mobile phones, related to health, productive use of time and social relationships.

There are several advantages to using mobile phones. Firstly, mobile phones have made communication easy and cheap between friends, family and businesses. People can call or text or even video call each other at any time. Secondly, mobile phones have many other uses such as browsing the internet, reading emails, playing games, shopping online or learning online.

While these benefits are important, there are also important disadvantages. One is the health risk. For example, keeping a mobile phone next to your ear all the time can cause cancer and headaches. A second disadvantage is that many people spend too much time texting and chatting on their mobile phones. When people use their mobiles all the time, they waste a lot of time. Also, using a mobile all the time stops you from interacting face-to-face with other people.

To sum up, in spite of its disadvantages I think that mobile phones are useful when people use it in organized period of time.
